

NOURISH

Everyday Indian nutrition, rebuilt for modern homes.

SEED ROUND

Fictional company / illustrative numbers

■18 Cr FY25 revenue • 58% gross margin

2.4x YoY growth • 14,000+ retail doors

The thesis

Build the leading Indian better-for-you snacking platform before the category gets crowded.

Raise: ■35 Cr

Target post-money: ■140 Cr

18–24 month operating plan

INDIA

A large category with a clear consumer gap

Traditional snacking is convenient. Modern snacking is not yet truly Indian.

Where the market breaks

One platform, multiple everyday occasions

Start with snacks. Expand into the pantry.

Portfolio logic

High-frequency hero SKUs create repeat → family packs lift AOV → adjacent categories improve share of wallet.

HERO SKU

Masala Millet Crunch
42% of FY25 revenue • 31% repeat purchase within 90 days

Traction: from D2C experiment to omnichannel brand

The business has crossed the early product-market-fit threshold.

■ 18 Cr

FY25 revenue

2.4x

YoY growth

58%

Gross margin

14k+

Retail doors

31%

90-day repeat

What changed

- Expanded from D2C into modern trade and general trade
- Hero SKU now available in 9 major cities
- Contribution margin turned positive in Q4 FY25
- Repeat cohorts improving as retail availability increases

Omnichannel is becoming the moat

Digital acquires demand; retail compounds availability and trust.

Channel role

D2C = discovery + data | Modern trade = premium visibility | General trade = scale + repeat

Unit economics work at the SKU level

Healthy gross margin with a path to 20%+ contribution margin.

Net revenue / order	■410
COGS	■172
Gross profit	■238
Fulfilment + payment	■63
Marketing / CAC	■72
Contribution profit	■103

Key operating metrics

Target at scale: 62%+ gross margin and 20%+ EBITDA.

A focused wedge into a much larger opportunity

Win a ■1,000+ Cr serviceable segment before expanding the addressable pantry.

Expansion path

- 1 Win Better-for-you Indian snacks
- 2 Add Breakfast + protein occasions
- 3 Scale Tier 2/3 distribution
- 4 Extend Pantry staples with shared supply chain

Competitive whitespace

Nourish combines Indian relevance with modern-brand economics.

	Local / loose	Mass packaged	Health D2C	Nourish
Indian taste relevance	1	1	2	3
Ingredient transparency	1	2	3	3
Price accessibility	3	3	1	3
Omnichannel scale	3	3	1	2
Brand affinity	1	2	3	3

1 = weak • 3 = strong | Positioning is illustrative, not a factual competitor assessment.

The 35 Cr round is designed to unlock the next inflection

18–24 months to reach 75 Cr revenue run-rate.

Milestones

Q4 FY26	34 Cr revenue	25k retail doors
Q4 FY27	58 Cr revenue	45k retail doors
Q2 FY28	75 Cr run-rate	Contribution margin 22%+

Why Nourish, why now

Consumer Health-conscious behaviour is moving from niche to everyday.

Category Indian snacking remains fragmented, leaving room for a scaled brand.

Distribution Modern retail + quick commerce + general trade make discovery and scale complementary.

Economics The model reaches attractive contribution margins without relying on premium-only pricing.
